- Tony Wen, a former collaborator, is making a great effort to gain as high a position as possible in the Communist Party in the shortest time. He maintains cordial relations with Alimin and Amir Sjarifoedin. Wen is one of the leaders of the "International Brigade" in the Republican territory.
- Tony Wen often accompanies the plane which maintains Republican contact with Singora. The plane used on these operations is a Catalina without amphibious landing equipment. The object of its flights is the transport of opium from the Republic to the outside world to increase the Republic's economic strength. The opium is packed in cuspe rubber. The plane flies direct from Java to a place at sea not far from Singapore, arriving early in the evening. The cargo is transferred to a small boat, after which the journey to Singora is continued by the plane. The plane returns to Java after having loaded in Singora. A certain Boon is connected with the sale of the opium after it has been smuggled from the small boat into Singapore. Boon is the younger brother of Tony Wen. In the Republic, Captain Harjono at Kediri is in charge of the opium shipments. A total of two tons of spium have already been flown to Singapore. The Republic still has 13 tons of spium of high quality for export. One kilo of spium brings 16 United States dollars; 15 tons of spium would thus represent 24,000,000 Straits dollars. Further shipments of opium to Singapore are expected in July.

Tony Wen was transported by an American pilot in a two-motored American plane from Jogjakarta via Fort de Kock to Singapore. Among the other passengers was a group of nine Andonesian students and a few leaders of the Republican "Intelligence Service" Bagian V. The purpose of this trip apparently was to buy weapons for the depublic. The students and other passengers were to continue on to Calcutta for the purpose of improving the relations of the Republic

Tony Wen and Alimin live in Solo, the principal headquarters of Chinese Communist activity in Republican territory. Other headquarters include Madicen and Blitar,
